Lisquishar Controvers; by 1811 Wardlan, of Glasgows-800, 28 29
An account of the Inquisition at Gue, in India, translated from the French of M. Dellow who was confined two years within its cells; within anomalic country.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   DRAWING BEGUN;
Or, more performed them was promitted.
On Tursday last, the drawing of Washing-On Bridge Luttery canimenced in the city—alliough the time promised in the scheme has not yet arrived. Five hundred numbers were drawn—and the spectators witnessed the curious fact of 257 prizes leaving the wheels against only 218 blushs! But at this is about an average proportion of prizes in this richly "prize-dealing luttery," the wheels have gained no less than $743, and will continue to gain unit soone, spiral puzz is turned out. The price of teckets must therefore he expected to advance shortly, Good Notes, payable when the drawing closes, continue to be taken for five tickets and upwards.
